

Now Showing!

at a computer near you

Child Development: Discovery, Unfoldment, and Variations

This online training exposes participants to typical and atypical development across all domains. It highlights the interrelatedness of all domains of development, developmental red flags, and the impact of certain disabilities/conditions on overall development.

Participants will engage in self-reflection, explore resources related to specific disabilities, and expand their knowledge base as it relates to their work with children and families.

This self-paced learning experience supports professional development in the area of child development.

No Need to Register. Do at Your convenience!

Just follow this link for instructions:

http://cdd.unm.edu/ec/trainings/pdfs/ecn/child_dev_instr.pdf

REVIEWS

"As a supervisor, I would absolutely use this with new staff. I envision using this with new hires in their beginning weeks of training."
-E.I. Coordinator

"I really enjoyed the links to resources. These resources were amazing to provide new information that could easily be used with families."

- Family Service Coordinator

"This would have been a much needed resource for me when I was starting out."
-Family Service Coordinator

"Excellent training."

-DS II

"I envision incorporating this training into our monthly staff meeting which includes new and current staff along with therapists."

-EI Coordinator